

BECOMING A EURAD END-USER

Why should I become a EURAD end-user?

You will be part of a large network gathering 118 organisations working in the field of radioactive waste management. This will allow you to follow EURAD and have access to scientific and technical information on progress of the different work packages. Only non-confidential information is shared with end-users but you will be able to identify more easily and quickly new knowledge that is publicly available.

All end-users are invited to the EURAD annual conferences, which are an opportunity for small talks and networking as well as to hear about cutting-edge science.

If you wish you will be added to the contact list to receive EURAD newsletters and all kind of dissemination information in the field of RWM.

Who can become a EURAD end-user?

It is open to EU and non-EU representatives from:

- Implementation oriented organisations
- Regulatory expertise function oriented organisations, regulators
- Research entities
- Waste producers/owners
- National programme owners
- International organisations

Organisations can be end-users but also individuals, which means that if your organisation is part of EURAD but you (as individual) are not directly involved in EURAD you can still become an end-user.

What should I expect to do as end-user?

You may be invited to contribute to the evaluation and assessment of EURAD results/impacts as well as to review some deliverables in your field of expertise. We see this as a mutual benefit as you will be recognized as reviewer which may contribute to your recognition to the outside world as expert in your field.

There is no financial contribution from EURAD to the participation in the EURAD User-Group. This means that the travel costs, including meeting and workshop participation fees are not carried by EURAD. There is no financial contribution from EURAD to the staff costs of the EURAD EUG.

Your role is to help us increase and maximize the impact of EURAD.

How to become a EURAD end-user?

The process is simple and straightforward. A formal application must be sent to EURAD Secretariat: secretariat@ejp-eurad.eu

Your request will be assessed by the Programme Management Office and you will receive a reply within 3 weeks.

As no confidential information is shared with the end-users, no non-disclosure agreement needs to be signed.

We look forward to having your potential participation to the EURAD end-user group.
